Communication

All the marvels of modern technology are at our fingertips. So many forms of communication are available to the average American and indeed to many in the world.

Why is it then that people are more disconnected than ever? Husbands and wives, children and parents, churchgoers, etc. All are not communicating on a deeper level, but on a superficial level.

With so many forms of communication, are we more removed from each other than ever? We are on the go so much that it is a short hello here and a quick goodbye on the phone. So we try to connect on Facebook and Twitter, among other things and even then we are skimming the top of the surface of our relationships. We are so busy with these pursuits and for what and how high is the price?

Let's make time for each other with quality time and not pieces of time here and there. We can put down our toys and look each other in the eye. We can be there for each other in person with sharing and goodwill.
