Joblessness

The subject of joblessness is of primary importance in countless households in America today. No one can truly know all of those affected, because of those also working part time, barely surviving, and businesses that are going under at an alarming rate.

The days of prosperity are shrinking for the average American, and many find themselves in a situation that they have never faced. Having been born into the "Great Depression", I know of some of the heartaches. One of them was moving from place to place, wherever or whenever a place became available. My father was an insurance agent and lost his own agency in the crash of the stock market in 1929. I was used to being pulled out of school, moving from one area of Chicago to another. Many times we were locked out of our apartment, because there simply was no money for the rent.

One thing is indelibly stamped on my mind, I saw my mother on her knees, praying. She was a woman of faith. So no matter how bad the situation looked, we had a roof over our heads every night, even if it was another roof, or the roof of "The Salvation Army." At times we ate by candlelight, because the electric was shut off, but we ate, nevertheless!

"If you fall under pressure, your strength is small", is a verse in the Bible. Proverbs 24:10. NLT. The bible is full of principles on economics. Our ways of spending money are not according to biblical principles, but according to lust and greed, both of the Lender and of the Borrower.

America must get in touch with "The Greatest Financier in the Universe, "Seek you first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these THINGS will be added unto you!" Put your trust in your Creator, and He will supply your every need.
