Spiritual Oil Spill

The recent report of the worst oil spill disaster of all time is a sad state of affairs for all connected to it. The wild life and the creatures in the sea are killed by the oil that if mined properly would bring many useful products for consumers. The cost of cleanup is astronomical.

However, this beneficial oil when processed properly can be likened to the oil of the Holy Spirit. In the 23rd Psalm, David referred to the oil of the Spirit when he said, "Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over." This kind of holy oil spill is beneficial to those who will receive it. Oil when used in the proper context is used for good, but an oil spill in the sea can be devastating for all concerned.

What then can be learned from this comparison? Oil was produced by our heavenly Father for the use of all mankind for transportation, for household products and things too numerous to mention. By the same token, the oil that represents the Holy Spirit to the child of God is life giving and one cannot receive too much when flooded by the Spirit of the Living God! Having your cup running over is a flood that will not hurt you or the environment but will propel you forward into your God given destiny!
