Respect

Whatever happened to respect? Is nothing sacred anymore? Are there any self respecting people that would dare to give the same respect to others as they would like to have done for themselves?

We see this everyday, as we use our freedoms in this country to put a President in office and then tear him limb from limb with our tongues!

Imagine the highest office in the nation is disrespected all the time with ridicule and radical criticism! This filters down to the schools and right into our homes.

Children are disrespecting their parents and teachers. Parents are in some cases not worthy of being held in high esteem. They live their lives that become detrimental to their families. We as parents and grandparents need to set the example.

Romans 12:10 in the NLT says "take delight in honoring one another"

Can you imagine what kind of a world we would have if we followed this advice? What if we went to that "extreme" in order to show this kind of respect? To actually delight in doing so may be foreign to our human nature! It is so easy to criticize, for we all have faults and can spot them in everybody. By the same token, we all have good qualities that should be honored by our families and co-workers.

I am challenging myself and you the reader to show someone the respect due them today! And then pray that this will be an inspiration for that person to do the same. Do random acts of honor and respect!
